A new west wing, discreetly in keeping with the original mansion, was completed in the spring of 1973. All the bedrooms in this wing have carpeted bathrooms, television, radio and two telephones, in addition to superb views of beautiful gardens and countryside. Each bedroom has a special name and the character of each room is enhanced by the matching wall and ceiling papers and curtains. There is a lift, and room service is available at all times.

There is ample free parking at the hotel and Piccadilly Circus is reached in under 40 minutes from the nearby Cockfosters Underground Station. Without leaving the hotel guests can enjoy croquet, putting, boating or a quiet walk. Near West Lodge Park are Hatfield House, the Jacobean home of the Salisbury family, St. Albans, with its Cathedral and Roman remains, and almost next to the hotel is Trent Park, London's newest 350 acre country park, where horse riding is available; several golf courses are also within easy reach of the hotel.
