

Beales Hotels welcomes industry leader into the family business

Beales Hotels, a 250-year-old family business based in Hertfordshire, has welcomed a leader in the hospitality industry to their board. Richard Young, formerly Managing Director of Great Fosters in Surrey, has been appointed as Non Executive Director in September 2019.

With an unrivalled wealth of experience in the corporate and leisure sectors Richard has joined the Beales Hotels family business with a proven track in the four and five star market.

“For 250 years Beales Hotels have enjoyed an enviable reputation for the highest levels of hospitality. I have had the pleasure of seeing the group develop over a number of years and welcome this opportunity to lend my expertise at Board level to further support them in their future plans and aspirations,” said Richard.

Beales Hotels is currently celebrating 250 years of business. With a history dating back to 1769, a direct descendant of the Beale family has run the business for eight generations. Next year also marks their 75th anniversary at West Lodge Park Hotel in Hadley Wood.

Andrew Beale, Managing Director of Beales Hotels added : “As a family business we recognise the need to incorporate fresh perspectives and new blood into our management team. Richard combines first class experience with innovative strategies and I very much look forward to working together.”
